Excerpt: .and will make a specialty of hats from $5 to $10. Miss Jeanette Hill, for the past year manager and buyer for the millinery department of the Crow Whitmarsh Co., resigned the early part of the month to take the management of the Stone Fisher millinery department. Seattle. She will be succeeded by Miss Julia Potts, who for the past nine years acted as head trimmer and was recently promoted to assistant manager. Miss Ruhl, of the Morehouse Co., left August 10th for the Eastern market and is expected to return the latter part of the month. A recent ordinance passed by the City Council of Cleveland prohibiting long hat pins without a guard went into effect and seems to meet with popular favor. Denver DENVER S quiet Season showed a very fair amount of business. Among the retailers, July was a month of sales and nearly every window in the town was full of marked-down Midsummer goods. But on the heels of the pretty panama came a remarkable run in the white felt. The supply of these felts has not been large enough to meet the demand, every retail store in the place putting its patrons off with a promise of a new shipment. The glare of the sun in Colorado demands a brim on an outing hat and yet the popular manner of wearing the hats is turned back directly from the forehead. An entirely new departure in Denver is the installation...
