Mr. Duncan addressed the committee as follows: Mr. Chairman: I am happy to have this opportunity to make some remarks in relation to the financial policy adapted, and so far pursued, by this and the late Administration. The bill now under consideration has been amended in the Senate, by striking out the appropriation of twenty thousand dollars for the improvement of the Cumberland river within the limits of Kentucky and Tennessee. The gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. Williams] says that this amendment was made in a certain quarter (meaning the Senate) for a certain purpose, (I suppose to punish the people of Kentucky for not being more Democratic,) and to affect a certain individual, [Mr. Clay.] This may all be, if we are prepared to suppose that grave Senators could so far I forget their high stations as to make such paltry considerations an object of action in the discharge of their high functions and sacred duties. But I think we may find another reason for this judicious and laudable amendment - a reason that has its foundation in patriotism and economy. The howl of extravagant profligacy and bankruptcy has never been out of our ears since the commencement of the session until this time, and it will continue with the session. Yes, sir, that howl has cost the people more money than would redeem the Treasury...
